2017 AIJCA CONFERENCE HONOREE GREG CLIFTON

By: Ashley Fitzsimmons

Greg Clifton

The AIJCA Junior National Conference Honoree is Greg Clifton from North Richland Hills, Texas.
The founder of the
"Chance Clifton Live Big Foundation" and long-time supporter of the AICA and AIJCA, has come to call the Charolais breed and the breeders family.

Greg Clifton was raised in Clarence, Missouri where his family raised commercial cattle, hogs, and horses, and had a small grain and hay operation. He attended University of Missouri – Columbia receiving his degree in Animal Husbandry. While in college, Greg was a member of the Meats Judging and Livestock Judging Teams where he was introduced to the powerful Charolais breed. Greg recalls a moment on a judging team trip to Wesson Charolais and remembers how "intrigued by the big white cattle" he was. From there he started using Charolais bulls in his family's commercial Angus cow herd. He noticed the "added growth and efficiency" and became a "believer" in the Charolais breed. After graduation Clifton went to work for the American Yorkshire Club then was on to the Weekly Livestock Reporter as one of their field representatives until 1989.

Clifton started auctioneering in the fall of 1989, his first Charolais auction was at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo in 1990. A mentor and friend of Clifton, prominent Charolais auctioneer Colonel George Morse, told many stories of selling Charolais cattle over the years and was a great inspiration for Clifton selling Charolais as well as many of the other purebred breeds. Clifton has had the great privilege to auctioneer for many Charolais cattle sales all over the United States and considers the breeders like his second family.

When Clifton is not busy auctioneering, he is teaching and coaching Advanced Animal Science during the week at the Birdville Center of Technology and Advanced Learning. This is his second-year teaching and mentoring with the "inner city" youth of North Richland Hills and surrounding communities, creating a major impact on them by highlighting the positive aspects of animal agriculture and how they can be involved. "Some of my ag students have gone on to become Ag teachers and Prevet students. This program gives them enough exposure and enthusiasm about animal agriculture that they want to become involved," said Clifton. The school has a nice show facility located in the middle of town where Clifton's main goal is to educate urban youth in an encouraging environment. All of Clifton's students live in town and keep their animals at the show facility. Being a part of the school's show team allows the youth to travel to some of the big shows across Texas. If the students show interest in showing, the faculty will encourage them to start out with a smaller animal like a goat or pig. When they have shown that they can handle the responsibility and can handle that animal, Clifton will give them the opportunity to show a Charolais heifer or steer through a scholarship program if they cannot afford to purchase their own. "For a lot kids, this is the first time they have had any kind of animal to teach them responsibility, care, selection and the whole gamut of taking care of and showing an animal," said Clifton.

The Clifton family had a major life changing event happen in June of 2013 when their son, Chance, was killed in an accident the summer before his senior year. Chance left a huge impact on others with his "live big" attitude so the family created the "Chance Clifton Live Big Foundation" in his memory. The foundation gives out numerous scholarships to high school seniors for college as well as helping families that suffer a tragic loss with financial assistance. The foundation gave many different scholarships in the first three years but the ones that they received the most response back from were the scholarships that were awarded to the American-International Junior Charolais Association youth. "We were getting thank you letters, a lot of times three letters, throughout the year saying how much this has meant and really helping," said Clifton. "It is our privilege as a family to be about supporting the AIJCA and encouraging young people to live a

2017 AIJCA SHOW DEDICATEE LINDA HICKAM

By: Ashley Fitzsimmons

Linda Hickam

This year's Junior National Show
Dedicatee is a woman who is passionate about Charolais cattle and the future of youth in the AIJCA. Although she wasn't born into the Charolais breed, Linda Hickam has made a huge impact in the industry as well as with the Association and its members.

Linda Hickam grew up on a commercial cow/ calf and backgrounder operation in southwest Columbia, Missouri. Her passion for the cattle industry started in her youth while working for her father on their farm and with their custom hay operation. Hickam attended the University of Missouri and received a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture Education with a minor in Math Education specializing with grades 9-12. After graduation, she taught production agriculture and math while continuing her education and got her Master Degree in Education. After five years of teaching, Hickam decided to pursue a career as a veterinarian and over the next year completed the courses required for admission to vet school, applied and was accepted.

Once she obtained her degree in Veterinary Medicine, Hickam started practicing in a rural mixed animal practice, predominately large animal. This is where she met her husband, David Fountain, who was a client of hers at the time. Hickam said, "Not sure he wouldn't say his veterinary service was better prior to marriage." David was who introduced Hickam to the Charolais breed and continued the tradition on to their daughter, Tara Fountain. Fountain Charolais was started by David and his father, Wayne Fountain, shortly after they purchased their first Charolais in 1973 and it has been history since then. Like her mother, Tara has become very passionate for the cattle industry, specifically the Charolais breed and is continuing the family tradition by joining the partnership with David.

Hickam's passion for the cattle industry started at a young age and was inherited from her father. "I was going with him to feed cattle before I was old enough to attend school," Hickam stated. She was taught at an early age about the economic value of heavier weaning weights and knew that her Charolais cross cows were always producing the heavier calves at weaning time.

"The ability to add performance in feed efficiency and pounds per day of age are valuable economic advantages the breed brings to the cattle industry," states Hickam.

Hickam's true passion for the Charolais breed and AIJCA came from her husband and daughter, David and Tara. She remembers attending her first AIJCA Junior National in 2003, held in Tupelo, Mississippi, with Tara and since then she has been hooked. "I was impressed by the opportunities available in the AIJCA to develop leadership skills, communication and networking opportunities, and marketing skills that will be valuable in their careers," said Hickam.

Hickam has been involved with the AIJCA for around 20 years and decided to become a Missouri junior advisor in 2009 when the AIJCA Junior National was in Sacramento, California. Not only has she been a great asset as a junior advisor but has also been a key member of the '06, '11, and '16 Junior National Planning Committees. As a junior advisor, she has had the opportunity to have a "front row seat with an amazing group of young agriculturalist passionate about cattle and the Charolais breed."

She believes in the AIJCA because it gives youth the opportunity to participate in many different leadership activities and contests depending on what appeals more to that individual. Opportunities like these are valuable in Hickam's mind with the development of many skills sets that these outstanding youth, will need in their future careers. "I have always loved the excitement in the eyes of the youth as they experience their first Junior National, win their first contest or succeed in the showring," Hickam said. She believes that these young people will be "charting new territory in the livestock industry," and is very confident that they will "surpass our expectations."
